

STARPOWER

How come people so rapidly take or give away power in teams and organisations and other group settings?

If this is a question you sometimes ponder then come and experience the extraordinary and powerful event known as STARPOWER which was initially developed by the Quakers to demonstrate how power so rapidly affects people, and how intentions to redress this is so difficult.

This workshop will provide you with evidence of the real difficulties in creating inclusion and equality in any aspect of life.

A deeper understanding will be provided about underlying psychological threads that may be outside of everyday awareness and yet impact profoundly on groups of people.

Facilitated by Rosemary Napper who is a training and supervising transactional analyst in organisational and educational settings, partnered by Dee Keane who is a learning and development consultant, and supported by Trudi Newton who is an educational TA trainer and supervisor - and all of whom have lots of experience of creating this event.

It will take place at Wytham Village hall on Saturday 27th September 2008 from 9.30 - 5.00. The fee is £80 plus VAT for one person; £70 each for two booking together; £60 each for three and £50 for four collective bookings with one receipt!
